Screening & Training

Our established reputation for quality security personnel is largely a result of our commitment to stringent standards in our selection process, staff training and performance review.

We put applicants through extensive screening and verification processes. After thorough background checks, applicants undergo a selection process that tests their physical fitness, personality, emotional quotient, general intelligence and communication skills.

For government compliance, all our security personnel are duly certified by Security Industry Regulatory Agency (SIRA), the governmental body tasked to regulate the emirate's security industry.
